

Abstract

The present invention provides a process for producing an alumina coating comprised mainly of  $\alpha$  crystal structure on a base material.